

ABSTRACT

There is provided in accordance with embodiments of the present invention a method of reducing the neighbor effect in reading data in a non-volatile memory array by sensing adjacent memory cells in a virtual ground array of memory cells comprising sensing substantially simultaneously a state of adjacent memory cells, wherein a bit stored in a charge trapping region of each cell of the adjacent memory cells is in an identical state.